PMBP SELF-ASSESSMENT #1 — DEVELOPING COMPETENT PRACTICES

Colo. RPC 1.1 requires lawyers to provide clients competent representation. This includes the requisite legal knowledge, skill, thoroughness and preparation reasonably necessary for the representation. A lawyer should consider issues of competence when accepting a new matter and when substantively or procedurally expanding an existing matter, e.g., whenever the lawyer addresses a new claim, files counterclaims, identifies other issues not previously considered, when unforeseen issues develop, when interpreting a contract previously drafted or negotiated by the lawyer, or at any point when the procedural course or substantive nature of the matter deviates from that which the lawyer initially envisioned. This self-assessment form provides examples of issues to consider and resources to explore.

WORKING GROUP #2 — COMMUNICATING IN AN EFFECTIVE, TIMELY, PROFESSIONAL MANNER

Communication problems are the second most common type of client complaint seen in the Office of Attorney Regulation Counsel. And when you are the subject of a complaint, your practice suffers. Simply put, communicating clearly with your client can contribute to a healthy, thriving law practice. Communicating clearly with a client includes ensuring that you receive client communications and engage in mandatory duties of communication.

Colo. RPC 1.4 addresses the lawyer’s duties to communicate with the client. The rule is mandatory, not permissive. Lawyers must communicate with clients about certain things related to the representation and do so in a timely manner. Notably, Colo. RPC 1.4(a) requires the communication of information concerning fees charged, costs, expenses, and disbursements to the client. Other procedures not mandated by the Rules can nonetheless help prevent client misunderstanding that often lead to ethics complaints. Creating written policies establishing minimum communication standards expected of you, your employees, and your clients goes a long way toward this goal.

PMBP SELF-ASSESSMENT #3 — ENSURING THAT CONFIDENTIALITY REQUIREMENTS ARE MET

Colo. RPC 1.6 addresses confidentiality of client information and when disclosure is prohibited or permitted. Confidentiality applies not only to matters communicated in confidence by the client, but to all information relating to the representation, whatever its source. A lawyer may not disclose such information except as authorized or required by the Rules. [Cmt. 3 to Rule 1.6]. Confidentiality survives the conclusion of the attorney-client relationship.

Many issues regarding disclosure of confidential information are preventable; thus, written policies to educate lawyers and staff, and review of such policies through the following form, will aid in preventing such disclosures. If you do not have a written policy, you still must consider whether you are taking appropriate steps to protect confidences. Technology presents additional issues, which are not always as obvious, and therefore, while preventable, must first be identified as an area of concern.

PMBP SELF-ASSESSMENT #5 — FILE MANAGEMENT, SECURITY, AND RETENTION

How you organize, manage, and secure client files directly impacts your efficiency and ability to get results for a client. This matters whether it is preparing for trial or timely responding to a client inquiry. Moreover, files often contain confidential client information, critical records, and client-lawyer communications about the objectives of the representation. You need to consider best practices for file management, security, and retention as part of a proactive assessment of your firm’s ethical infrastructure. This is particularly so in today’s digital age where client files are stored and portions shared and transmitted electronically.

Questionnaire	Yes	No	N/A	Ethical Considerations	Other Resources
Client Files
Do you have a standardized filing system for all client files?				George C. Cunningham & John C. Montana, The Lawyer’s Guide to Records Management and Retention , American Bar Association (2006) at 39: “A lawyer’s management of her records must protect the client’s interests . . . must protect the client’s confidences and secrets, and must be governed by the lawyer’s professional judgment . . . where handling of the records is not governed by rule or statute.”	Top 5 Reasons a Document Management Program Is Critical to Law Practice , FindLaw.com, Feb. 10, 2017.  Anthony Davis and David Elkanich, A Lawyer’s Guide to Records Management Issues: Important Considerations When Establishing a Workable File Retention and Destruction Policy , Chubb Group of Insurance Companies (2007).
Do you have a file-naming convention for paper and electronic files?				“In the absence of a well-defined and well-executed structure [for file naming], poorly named files . . . are effectively lost.” Cunningham and Montana, supra at 172.	Sam Glover, How to Organize Paperless Client Files , Lawyerist.com, November 25, 2013.
Do you have a policy to ensure electronic and paper copies of files are consistent?				Organized file management comports with an attorney’s duty to safeguard client property.
Do you have a policy (or is it your practice) to ensure all email or text communication with your client is copied to your paper/electronic files?				Copying communications to the file demonstrates your adherence to Colo. RPC Rule 1.4 in communicating with your clients.	Beverly Michaelis, Documenting Email as Part of a Client’s File, Part I , Oregon State Bar Bulletin , April 2013.

Do you have a policy for handling originals received from clients?				A log should kept that complies with Colo. RPC 1-15 A&amp;D and 1-16A whenever an attorney receives property from a client.
Do you log or document receipt of original documents from a client?				Documenting receipt of original documents is consistent with an attorney’s fiduciary obligations under Colo. RPC 1-15A, D & 1-16A .	Client File Management and File Retention , Tennessee Bar Association.
Do you scan and return originals or retain them?				If you retain originals, you should consider a policy for their eventual return to the client. Colo. RPC 1-15 A &amp; D ; and Rule 1-16A .	Client File Management and File Retention , Tennessee Bar Association.
Do you have a file-retention policy that complies with Colo. RPC 1.16A?				Written policies and fee agreements should contain terms that comply with the notice requirements of Colo. RPC 1.16A .	See Comment to Colo. RPC 1.16A
Does your policy also account for your obligations under C.R.C.P. 121, § 1-26(7)?				Attorneys must maintain a signed original for 2 years for all E-filed documents.
Maintaining File Security
Do you have a system to track or limit access to files by members of your staff?				Tracking or limiting access protects client confidentiality through an extra security layer.	Christopher Anderson & Dan Barahona, When “Secure Enough” Isn’t Enough: A Law Firm Guide to Protecting the Confidentiality of Client Files , Lexis Nexis (2013), at p. 13.
Is your office secure? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Are your paper files kept in a secured cabinet or secured within your office?</li> <li>○ Are they protected from flood/fire/vermin?</li> </ul>

Does your firm have adequate data back-up procedures for all firm and all client data?				Data back-up is essential to avoiding losing a file or your work product in the event of a cyber-security breach, fires, flood, etc.	Practical Steps to Thwart Ransomware and Other Cyberbreaches , Around the ABA, December 2016.
Do you have encryption policies in place to address transmission via email of medical records, financial records, or other highly confidential materials?				<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Colo. RPC 1.6(c)</li> <li>• Colo. RPC 1.6, cmt. 19</li> </ul>	ABA Ethics Op. 11-459 Duty to Protect the Confidentiality of E-mail Communications with One’s Client HIPPA Privacy Rule
Do you have the time and expertise to oversee technology, including security, in order to properly maintain files?				<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• “It is the responsibility of the lawyer delivering legal services online—not the hosting company, the software provider . . . or any other entity—to ensure that . . . the practice complies with the high ethical standards required by the lawyer’s law license.” Stephanie L. Kimbro, Virtual Law Practice, ABA, 2010, p. 133.</li> <li>• If you do not have a designated technology compliance officer, you may consider hiring someone to assist with this task.</li> </ul>	CNA Professional Counsel, Safe and Secure Cyber Security Practices for Law Firms , CNA, March 2015.
Do you have a training system in place for employees and staff with respect to file systems, computer usage, email, and internet usage?				<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Staff training should emphasize proper file management is critical to protecting client confidences and property.</li> </ul>
Network / Hardware Security
Do you have adequate physical security protection for the computer hardware used in the operation of your firm’s network?				<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Secure hardware reduces the chance that confidential information stored or accessed electronically will be compromised.</li> <li>• Colo. RPC 1.6(c)</li> </ul>	Client Confidentiality Protection in the Age of Cyberattacks, Other Digital-Age Threats , ABA E-News , December 2016. CBA Ethics Op. 119 Disclosure, Review and Use of Meta Data

					ABA Ethics Op. 06-442 Review and Use of Metadata Metadata Ethics Opinions Around the U.S. ABA Legal Technology Resource Center.
Do you enforce software updates, including updating patches and antivirus software?				Client information and files stored electronically receive better protection from viruses and potential cybersecurity breaches through regular software updates.	Practical Steps to Thwart Ransomware and Other Cyberbreaches , Around the ABA, December 2016.
Do you utilize a wireless computer network or “open” or “wi-fi” networks not controlled by your firm? If so, have you taken adequate steps to protect the confidentiality of client information transmitted through or accessible by the use of those networks?				Client information that you transmit or access through open networks could be vulnerable to inadvertent disclosure.	CNA Professional Counsel, Safe and Secure Cyber Security Practices for Law Firms , CNA, March 2015.
Do you make sure your own firm internet is secure through the use of an encrypted in-house wi-fi and encrypted guest wi-fi network?				Allowing guests to freely use your internal wi-fi network could compromise client confidences.
Do you use smart phones or other portable digital devices in your practice? If so, are those devices adequately configured to protect from a loss or breach the confidentiality of information stored on or accessible through the phone or other digital device (such as USB drives, portable storage devices)?				Colo. RPC 1.6(c)	Pam Guerry, Why Remote Security Is a Must , Law Technology Today (Am. Bar Ass’n), Jan. 12, 2017.
Do you or your firm conduct periodic cybersecurity testing?				Periodic testing, such as conducting vulnerability assessments, identifies cyber security procedures that need improvement in order to maintain the confidentiality of files.	Sherri Davidoff, Law Firm Cybersecurity Audits: Getting to Good , ABA Law Practice Today , February 12, 2016.

Is your network configured to log data in the event of a cyber-security breach?					Ed Tittel and Earl Follis, How Better Log Monitoring Can Prevent Data Breaches , CIO.com, Feb. 24, 2015.
Cloud Services
If you use cloud services, where do the cloud servers reside? In the U.S., or elsewhere? If elsewhere, have you considered how the laws of that jurisdiction impact confidentiality?
Does the contract with the cloud provider address confidentiality of the information? Does it address whether the information will remain confidential should the contract end?					Cloud Ethics Opinions Around the U.S. ABA Legal Technology Resource Center.
Does your cloud service have regular and adequate data backup policies?					Cloud Ethics Opinions Around the U.S. ABA Legal Technology Resource Center.
Is data in the cloud encrypted and do you and your firm have sole control of the encryption key?					Linda Musthaler, Encrypted Data In the Cloud? Be Sure to Control Your Own Keys , Network World, Sept. 5, 2014.
Do you advise clients of the risk that client files stored in the cloud could be hacked and do you obtain client consent to cloud file storage?					Judith Rosenblum, Ethical Dilemmas or A No Good, Terrible, Bad Day , The Docket (Denver Bar Association), October 26, 2014.
Disaster Plan / Continuity of Operations
Do you have a disaster recovery plan in place for paper files and electronic files?					Disaster Recovery for Law Firms (ABA)
Do you or your firm have a continuity of operations plan so that the firm may continue to operate in the event of a natural disaster or security breach?				A natural disaster or technological breach presents multi-faceted ethical issues including safeguarding client confidences, securing client files, as well as maintaining a lawyer's duty of diligence.	Surviving A Disaster: A Lawyer's Guide to Disaster Planning , ABA Special Committee on Disaster Response and Preparedness, August 2011.

PMBP SELF-ASSESSMENT #6 — MANAGING THE LAW FIRM/LEGAL ENTITY AND STAFF APPROPRIATELY

Responsible office management is an indispensable aspect of competent, ethical representation. It also pays dividends in the form of client satisfaction and repeat business and referrals. This self-assessment examines office and staff management procedures to help attorneys build an ethical infrastructure.

Except in circumstances where a lawyer has previously represented a client, a lawyer is required to communicate to a client the base and rate of a fee in writing. Colo. RPC 1.5. It is in the interest of both the lawyer and client to have this communication take the form of a formal written fee agreement signed by both. This protects both the client and the lawyer. PMBP SELF-ASSESSMENT #8 — ENSURING THAT RELIABLE TRUST ACCOUNT PRACTICES ARE IN USE

Lawyers must establish a trust account if they accept fees from clients for work they have not yet performed or for expenses not yet incurred. In addition, lawyers who receive client settlement funds or hold a third party’s funds as part of a legal representation must have a trust account. The obligation to establish a trust account springs from an attorney’s fiduciary duty to clients and third parties and the related duty to safeguard property belonging to others. Under the Colorado Rules of Professional Conduct, lawyers have to keep funds that belong to clients or third persons separate from the lawyer’s own property, including separate from the lawyer’s business or personal accounts.

Lawyers can find the rules pertaining to trust account management at Colo. RPC 1.15A – 1.15E. These rules cover trust account issues ranging from record keeping, to who may withdraw funds, to when account reconciliation must occur.

Proper trust account management is essential to an ethical, professional practice. The following self-assessment contains questions that lawyers required to have a trust account should consider in managing and maintaining such an account.

PMBP SELF-ASSESSMENT #9 — ACCESS TO JUSTICE AND CLIENT DEVELOPMENT

An important part of the administration of justice in our state is ensuring that people of all economic levels and geographic locations have access to not only the courts, but to competent, licensed professional legal assistance. This self-assessment form is designed to help lawyers evaluate their practices and procedures relating to this important principle. Because tackling the justice gap necessarily involves reaching out to underserved communities, we also provide guidelines concerning client development.

Access to Justice: Lawyers have a duty to promote and protect the public interest. One of the most significant issues currently facing consumers of legal services is meaningful access to justice. For purposes of this assessment, we are defining “access to justice” as a concept much broader than access to the courts and litigation. It encompasses a recognition that everyone is entitled to the protection of the law. It is about protecting ordinary and vulnerable people and solving their problems. Improving access to justice in Colorado requires leadership and change that reaches well beyond the traditional construct of legal aid. The responsibility must also fall to law firms and other for-profit legal organizations to look inward at what they might do themselves to better meet their obligations to promote and protect the public interest. Encouraging pro bono or other volunteer work, as well as exploring alternative fee arrangements and limited scope retainers (where appropriate and permitted), are examples of some tangible steps that firms can take to do their part to close the justice gap.

Additionally, lawyers and law firms should explore how they interact with self-represented parties. One aspect of the access to justice crisis in Colorado is that legal services have become increasingly expensive, and are unaffordable for many of those who have a need for legal services. This has resulted in a large number of self-represented parties. Studies show that a significant number of self-represented litigants have complaints about the opposing counsel with whom they interact. On the other hand, many lawyers report challenges in communicating or negotiating with self-represented litigants. This suggests, at the very least, that lawyers need more information and training to assist them in dealing with self-represented litigants.

Client Development: Client development and access-to-justice issues are closely tied together. When law firms are willing to retain clients using alternative fee structures and limited scope representation, more people are aware of and able to access legal services, while lawyers expand their books of business and diversify revenue streams. This is a classic example of a win-win. Providing legal services at reduced rates for low-income clients, adopting alternate billing models, and providing unbundled services are all examples of ways that lawyers can both bridge the justice gap, as well as develop new clients.

Questionnaire	Yes	No	N/A	Suggested Systems & Practices	Resources
Objective 1: Creating an efficient business structure that has room for alternative operational strategies aimed at reducing expenses and improving long-term sustainability.
Have you carefully considered your monthly expenses and overhead, and have you considered ways to reduce your expenses such as: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>-office sharing</li> <li>-alternative office space</li> <li>-phone service</li> <li>-investigator pricing</li> <li>-staff</li> <li>-supplies/equipment</li> </ul>				A law firm can incur sizable expenses and overhead. There are numerous ways to gradually build and manage infrastructure in the effort to keep costs more manageable. Low expenses and overhead means that less money is needed to be profitable and sustainable. Likewise, with tools (such as a state of the art case management system), lawyers and law firms can achieve greater efficiency. This may reduce the need for additional staff (which in turn reduces overhead). This may also free up an attorney’s time and provide a financial cushion that allows the attorney to take on pro-bono and modest means cases. If you are a solo lawyer just starting out, sharing office space will allow you to pool resources, save money and ease the isolation of practicing alone. But before entering into an office sharing arrangement with another lawyer, it is imperative that you know exactly what you can and cannot share, whether it be rent, computers—or even clients. Lawyers should also be mindful that sharing office arrangements with non-lawyers is a separate issue that subjects lawyers to distinct ethics requirements.	Bruce Stachenfeld, Reinventing the Law Business: Low Overhead is Great! Above the Law, June 24, 2014. Randall Ryder, How to Keep Your Solo Practice Sustainable and Lean, Lawyerist.com, March 25, 2016. Jenny B. Do you use technology to increase your efficiency and increase your ability to provide legal services at a lower cost/hourly fee?				Computer programs – such as for timekeeping, case management, etc., can increase productivity and reduce manual hours spent (and reduce stress).	Dean R. Dietrich, Handling Clients’ Text Messages, Wisconsin Lawyer.

Objective 2 - Having an effective office set-up that is conducive to providing services to a broader population.
Do you have a plan to promote cultural competency in your office? Does that plan include recruitment practices that consider diversity as relevant to the effort to promote access to justice?				Consider training to help attorneys and staff develop strategies for dealing with non-English speaking clients, low-income clients, and clients who may have had prior bad experiences with the justice system. Develop training to help attorneys effectively reach out to underserved populations who may not be aware of the nature of the American legal system. Also consider setting up appropriate expectations and practices – including hiring – that will allow the office to be responsive to the community. Does your firm have bilingual staff and/or access to interpreter/translator services				Hiring bilingual staff and/or providing interpreter/translator services will aid the office in outreach and service to non-English speaking, or English-as-a-second-language clients.
Do you provide formal or informal training to help staff interact with the public and potential clients?				Training is important for attorneys and staff alike. Simple tasks such as answering phones, responding to inquiries from clients, potential clients, and pro se parties are some of the office’s most important PR. Likewise, lawyers should keep in mind that these interactions are sometimes a person’s first encounter with the legal system--make sure it is a positive and respectful one.	Successful Business Planning: Representing the Moderate Income Client, Colorado Bar Association/CLE in Colorado (2013). Is there a way to accommodate them?	meeting at a local library or other place (be cautious about client confidentiality when meeting in public).
Objective 3 – Implementing alternative billing arrangements in order to bring in business and bridge the justice gap.				It is important that strategies and practices are in place that help the firm think broadly about taking diverse clients who might otherwise be unable to access an attorney. This includes actually visiting and getting to know unfamiliar areas.	What is the Justice Gap? , Justice Index 2016, National Center for Access to Justice, Fordham Law School

Have you considered providing limited scope representation, i.e. unbundled services?				It is important to remember obligations in both state and federal court. A clear letter laying out the limitations of the representation is also crucial. Also see Colo. RPC 1.2.
If you are not able to take a client, do you direct them to resources for modest means and indigent clients?				As part of providing access to justice for individuals who are confronted with a legal problem, it is important to think about whether simply saying “no” is the optimal answer. It is important to remember the opportunity to redirect a person to the right resources for their situation.	Colorado Legal Services .  Denver Bar Association Legal Clinics and Free Legal Information  Colorado Judicial Branch Self-Help Center

Objective 4: The Firm or Lawyer Provides Pro-Bono and other Volunteer Services
Do you take on pro bono work and encourage other attorneys in the firm to do so as well?				Pro bono and other volunteer activity in the community is encouraged by the law firm and taken into account in performance evaluations (for example, billable hour credits are provided or annual goals are set). <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• A written pro bono policy is in place.</li> <li>• You are required to participate in pro bono work.</li> <li>• Your entity encourages pro bono work.</li> <li>• Pro bono hours “count” toward billable hour targets.</li> <li>• You spend the appropriate amount of time with the client and are empathetic.</li> <li>• Consideration of Colo. Objective 5 - Using Effective Client Development Strategies to Increase Business and Bridge the Justice Gap				Lawyers should make efforts to be a part of the legal and non-legal community. One way to do this is to network with a local bar association or other legal groups. Lawyers may want to use social media and internet marketing to reach out to non-traditional legal consumers. Lawyers who provide low cost or alternative fee services should emphasize these services in their marketing. Websites and other marketing material should be user friendly and understandable.
Do you have a marketing strategy?				A marketing strategy might target underserved populations by emphasize the firm’s commitment to alternative fee arrangements, modest means clients, and unbundled services.	Successful Business Planning: Representing the Moderate Income Client, Colorado Bar Association/CLE in Colorado (2013).
Do you have a website and/or do you use internet tools for marketing?				Use the internet to reach out to new clients. A good website can bring in business. The website could provide concrete information about fees and billing. Websites can also clearly explain the firm’s	Keith Lee, Most Lawyers Suck at Internet Marketing , Above the Law, September 17, 2015.

				commitment to alternative fee structures, modest means, and unbundled services.	Steve Olenksi, The 7 Lethal Internet Marketing Mistakes Law Firms Make , Forbes , March 5, 2015.
Are you actively involved in the Colorado Bar Association and/or a local bar association and/or specialty bar association?				The Bar Association can help lawyers find pro-bono resources and other valuable resources for working with modest means or indigent clients.	Colorado Bar Association (CBA) Local Bar Associations (CBA)
Do you market in nontraditional ways and reach out to underserved legal markets?				Consider advertising in diverse publications and neighborhoods. Consider advertising in languages other than English. Further, Colorado is a big state with many potential clients who need services that live outside the Front Range metropolitan areas.
Objective 6 - The Firm evaluates success in providing access to justice.
Do you track and evaluate the demographics of clients and where clients are from?				It is important to consider tools to be strategic in advertising, not just reactive. Data collection, for planning purposes, is crucial.
Do you conduct interviews with clients at the end of representation to evaluate how they feel they have been treated in the legal system?				A satisfied client, and a client who understands what happened and why, is one who will leave with a sense of justice. That client will also refer other clients to the lawyer, even if the client “lost.” This is because, as Maya Angelou said, “people will forget what you said, people will forget what you did, but people will never forget how you made them feel.”
Do you or your law firm periodically review your success in reaching out to underserved populations?

PMBP SELF-ASSESSMENT #10 — WELLNESS AND INCLUSIVITY

Today’s lawyer demands a better lifestyle that embraces work/life balance and diversity. In 2015, the ABA Commission on Lawyer Assistance Programs and the Hazelden-Betty Ford Foundation conducted a study involving approximately 11,400 actively practicing layers from 19 states. The study revealed that approximately 21% of the lawyers qualified as problem drinkers, 28% struggle with depression, and 19% demonstrate symptoms of anxiety. The study also revealed that nearly one third of the lawyers with these issues are less than 30 years of age and have practiced less than 10 years.

Meanwhile, attraction and retention of quality staff is a challenge due to the reduction in law school attendance, aging in the profession, and 21st century changing technology. Diversity is when you count people; inclusiveness is when you make people count. You need both to have sustainable diversity in your firm/organization. Studies show that to increase staff retention, it is better to keep staff happy, healthy, engaged, and motivated.

This assessment presents a series of questions designed to help you evaluate whether your practice promotes wellness and inclusivity. For resources, the Colorado Lawyer Assistance Program (COLAP) offers Colorado attorneys confidential assistance for any career-related challenge. This could include coping with work stress, anxiety, succession planning, support in grieving a loss, or confronting substance use issues. COLAP has a confidential assistance line and its website, <http://coloradolap.org/>, features links to resources, lists of support groups, and articles on wellness issues. Additionally, the Tristan Jepson Memorial Foundation (<http://www.tjmf.org.au/>) is a volunteer organization that works to advance psychological health in legal work places. Through its website, you can find articles on mental health issues in the legal profession and guidelines for legal employers to consider to promote a positive, healthy work environment. Finally, the Center for Legal Inclusiveness, which is dedicated to “actively educating and supporting private and public sector legal organizations in their own individual campaigns to create cultures of inclusion,” provides support for attorneys looking to enhance diversity in their practice. The Center for Legal Inclusiveness promotes networking to connect attorneys with other attorneys to build career satisfaction and success. Its social media pages offer updates on diversity and inclusivity issues on a local and national level and may be found at <https://centerforlegalinclusiveness.org/>. If you answer “no” to questions in this assessment, you may want to consult the resources these organizations offer.
