ILG technicians will be onsite for day one of the exam to assist with issues that may arise with your computer during testing; please address any technical issues you encounter with the ILG software prior to coming to the exam in order to alleviate stress during your testing time. No additional time is granted for technical issues; you may have to handwrite the exam if you encounter computer technical issues that cannot be resolved.

Tips and Ticks for Exam Day:

Know your equipment. Equipment and operating systems vary; be familiar with the computer you plan to use on exam day. If you plan to purchase a new computer, do so well in advance of the active registration period. Spell check is an included feature of the testing software.

Borrowing a computer from another source is discouraged. If you must borrow a computer from another source, such as your employer, law school or friend, be certain that all security and/or network settings have been disabled or set to allow software downloads and that any administrator access and/or login data, such as username and password have been provided to you. This information may be required to boot your computer and may be needed for site technicians to assist you in the event your equipment malfunctions during the exam.

Disable Wi-Fi, anti-virus and spyware protection before you arrive at the exam site. The exam facility's wireless network may disable the testing software, preventing you from using your computer to take the exam.
