

People v. Marturano 00PDJ025 4/5/00 Attorney Regulation.

The Presiding Disciplinary Judge accepted the parties' Conditional Admission of Misconduct and suspended Donald Evan Marturano from the practice of law for a period of ninety days, with all ninety days stayed on the condition of a two year period of probation subject to conditions. The respondent failed to pay child support and arrearages of child support, in violation of Colo. RPC 3.4(c); however respondent was not aware of various orders entered by the court concerning his child support obligations. As of the date the Presiding Disciplinary Judge approved the Conditional Admission of Misconduct, respondent had fully paid the amount due as arrearages pursuant to stipulation, and is involved in proceedings to determine the amount due of child support due from August 1995 forward. The respondent was ordered to pay the costs of these proceedings.
