

People v. Scott Neil Walker. 15PDJ094. November 19, 2015.

The Presiding Disciplinary Judge dismissed a petition for reinstatement filed by Scott Neil Walker (attorney registration number 32859) on November 19, 2015. In 2011, Walker was suspended from the practice of law for three years in case number 10PDJ022 (consolidated with case number 10PDJ111). The Presiding Disciplinary Judge concluded that Walker's petition for reinstatement must be dismissed under C.R.C.P. 12(b)(5) because Walker had not fully paid the restitution and costs he was ordered to pay in his disciplinary matter and thus had not complied with all applicable disciplinary orders and rules, as required by C.R.C.P. 251.29(c). The Colorado Supreme Court affirmed the Presiding Disciplinary Judge's order on May 12, 2016.